$20,295 Allotted To MSC For High Ability Student Program

Murray State College has been allotted $20,295 by the National Science Foundation to conduct a basic science and mathematics education program for high ability high school students this summer.

Dr. Ralph H. Woods, MSC president, has announced.

Dr. Walter E. Blackburn, head of the chemistry department, will direct the program, which will coincide with the regular summer term June 12-Aug. 4.

The educational program is planned for a selected group of intelligent students who have completed at least two years of high school in schools where they have not had an adequate opportunity for certain aspects of their scientific education.

Some 30 participants for the program will be selected, most of them from high schools within a one hundred twenty-five mile radius of Murray. Principals of high schools having limited curricula will be informed of the objectives of the program and will be requested to nominate a limited number of candidates. These candidates will be screened by personal interviews and a standard, written aptitude test to be administered at the college by the program director and his associates.

Nomination forms for prospective students are available to principals and science teachers on request of Dr. W. G. Read, associate director. Deadline for submitting nominations will be March 15.

Final selection of participants will be made by a committee composed of the director, associate directors, and other members of the science faculty. Selection will be limited to students unable to obtain equivalent courses in their own schools.

Most of the students will live on the campus during the program, while others who will come from nearby schools will commute. At least part of the cost of room and board will be paid from National Science Foundation funds.

Dr. Blackburn reports that a full unit of high school work will be offered in each of four subject areas: biology, chemistry, physics, and mathematics. These will be taught at a pace and level which challenges and keeps active the interest of the intelligent students enrolled. A student will enroll in only one course.

In addition to rigid subject matter presentation, guidance and counseling services will be emphasized to acquaint students with their capabilities and with career opportunities in the sciences.

"Successful completion of the courses will provide a background in these fields that is at least equivalent to that provided in the better high schools," Dr. Blackburn said.

One unit of formal credit, which may be transferred to the student's high school, will be given for successful completion of a course.

"I want to re-emphasize," said Dr. Blackburn, "that, while in special case we may accept students from high schools with full science and mathematics programs, this program is basically for those who cannot get a similar course in their own schools."

Dr. Blackburn said that the 1961 program would be similar in objectives, and operation to the highly successful program last summer in which 94 students from seven states participated.

The high school program will be the third project financed by National Science Foundation funds to be conducted on the Murray State campus this year. Currently, an institute for high school teachers of science is being conducted, and this summer, the fifth Summer Science Institute for teachers will be held.

Freak Storm Piles Up Snow Five To Ten Feet In State

by United Press International
Temperatures in the high 50s today helped to melt the residue of Saturday's 9 1/2 inch snow, but the rapid melting brought with it warning of floods for low-lying areas.

The Weather Bureau at Louisville predicted considerable lowland flooding for the next week or two and the Ohio River rose 6.3 feet at Louisville Sunday to 40.3 feet on the lower gauge.

Rising waters washed out a work bridge at the multi-million dollar Greenup Dam on the Ohio River today, toppling two 50-ton cranes and one workman into the river.

The workman, who was not immediately identified, was pulled out unharmed after an hour in the water. He was hospitalized.

Flooding upstream caused the Ohio River to rise more than two feet in the area between Huntington, W.Va., and Greenup Sunday. The Ohio now has reached 45 feet at Greenup.

A tentative crest of 47 feet at Louisville is expected by next Saturday. Flood stage at Louisville is 55 feet. The river is expected to reach near flood stage from Paducah and U.S. 60 to the east, and the Ohio River rose 6.3 feet at Louisville Sunday to 40.3 feet on the lower gauge.

State police reported all U.S. highways were open to traffic early today, although many have snow and slick spots, and one-lane traffic is required in some areas.

Some state and secondary roads still are closed by drifts but continued melting today is expected to have them largely cleared by tonight. The wind-driven snow drifted to 10 feet in some areas, isolating hundreds of Kentuckians over Saturday night.

The storm accompanied by freak thunder and lightning, virtually isolated Louisville Saturday night and early Sunday. Hundreds of motorists abandoned stalled cars and made their way to shelter as best they could.

More than 500 motorists stranded on the Kentucky Turnpike late Saturday were housed at the Or. L. Roby School at Shepherdsville.

They were served coffee from the school lunchroom and given food originally prepared for a canceled banquet.

The Turnpike was reopened for one-lane traffic each way Sunday afternoon.

Interstate 65 south of Elizabethtown, U.S. 60 from Lexington to Paducah and U.S. 60 to the east were opened by mid-afternoon.

Greyhound Bus lines, which shut down over Saturday night, resumed service by Sunday afternoon.

Louisville's Standiford Field, which was closed to traffic as the storm whipped in early Saturday, was reopened shortly after noon Sunday.

U.S. 42 was closed briefly Sunday until snow plows could clear a path through wind-blown drifts at Sligo.

Some rural schools remained closed in the state today but most schools in the Louisville area — hardest hit by the storm, were open. Jefferson County School Supt. Richard Van Housen said the schools would be open "for all who can make it."

Snow removal crews and high temperatures Sunday helped improve Louisville traffic conditions but the traffic engineer Sunday night issued a plea for off-street parking today and the use of public transportation as much as possible.

College High Home Ec Girls Are Keeping Busy

The Murray College High Home Economics department was quite busy last semester. The Junior High and High school classes have studied some of the seven areas of home making last semester and will study the remaining areas this semester. The seven areas include: clothing, child care, foods, housing, health, management, and relationships.

Several of the girls have completed home projects in one of these areas. These projects are planned learning experiences carried out in the home and or community. These projects brought satisfaction, enjoyment and a desire to do other projects to the girls. Miss Sue Fairless, the Home Economics teacher, said visited in some of the girls' homes and helped them with their projects.

The members of the Future Homemakers of America, a national organization for high school girls who are taking or have already completed one year of home making, have been busy also. The girls have been working on their Junior, Chapter and State degrees as well as the chapter projects. Last week they began a campaign "CLEAN UP DON'T LITTER UP."

This campaign is in connection with the state project "KEEP KENTUCKY CLEAN." The girls were in charge of a locker inspection at school. With posters and talks to the home rooms the girls gained the cooperation of most of the students.

A series of lessons in clothing construction is now in progress for the adults of the community. This is being conducted as a part of the total home making program at Murray College High. This service is for any adult who may be interested in attending the classes.

Clue Found To Death Of Baby

By H. J. HELLER
United Press International

NEW YORK (AP) — Police today found their first concrete clue to the identity of the drunken defendant who generated those twisted passions to let him rape, beat and kill a 4-year old Edith (Goochie) Kiecor.

The battered body of the pretty girl was found Sunday in a freed room on the West Side. The room had been rented to a Fred Thompson, a toothless, beer-swilling little man now the focus of a nation-wide search.

Police said today fingerprints found in the room and descriptions of the man have identified him as the holder of a temporary cabaret working card issued Nov. 13, 1953. At that time Thompson lived in the Prince Hotel on the Bowery.

It was believed Thompson got the card to work in a restaurant kitchen.

Some 20,000 face sketches and a nationwide alarm were issued for the man who rented the 88-a-week trash-littered room under the name of Fred Thompson. He was described as 5-3 tall, sandy-haired and in his early fifties. He was last seen Wednesday one hour before Goochie disappeared while playing in front of her uncle's apartment house two blocks from Thompson's room, touching off one of the most intensive searches in the city's history.

Police scoured the run-down Manhattan neighborhood with sketches of Thompson in a hunt for acquaintances. One report said persons in two bars identified him and described him as a trouble-maker. Police has good fingerprints from more than 40 beer cans that littered the room.

The pretty blonde girl was found by detectives who broke down the door of the rooming house flat after another tenant in the building complained of an odor coming from the room in which Thompson rented Feb. 17, paying in advance.

Goochie had been sexually molested and was killed the day she disappeared, the medical examiner said. Her beaten, twisted body was lying on an iron poster bed, partly covered with a sheet and a dark red quilt. Her underwear and purple snowsuit had been ripped off and tossed on the floor, but she still was wearing a green dress.

The County Judge will receive a salary of $8,000 and fees can take his salary up to $7,200. He has been receiving a salary of $4,800 and various fees took his total income to $6,500.

The County Attorney will receive a salary of $4,800 under the new salary arrangement with fees from fines and forfeitures moving his income up to the new limit of $7,200. The county attorney now receives $2,400 annually with fees from various fines running his salary to the limit of $6,500.

Watershed Tour Is Revealing To County People On Friday

Watershed are alarmed over the hill side erosion and flood damage caused by recent heavy rains. It is a coincidence that a tour to observe watershed work done in Mud River watershed, centered in Logan County, was scheduled for Friday, February 24. The tour group was especially interested in flood control features of the water retarding structures following heavy rains. Jewell Graham, Chairman of Mud River Watershed explained, "People are often skeptical about the flood prevention features of these dams and the overall benefits of the watershed program — we are now able to prove these benefits rather than try to convince them orally. The construction of floodwater retarding structures has greatly increased the sale value of every farm where water is impounded or stream channel work is completed. The people owning land immediately below floodwater dams are not the only people benefited by a long shot."

The watershed work plan for West Fork watershed (and its sister watershed — East Fork) includes stabilization of gullied areas, conservation measures on farms, flood water retarding dams and stream channel improvement. L. J. Northern, Soil Conservation Service, Logan County, told the group, "Land treatment measures on individual farms is the unglamorous part of watershed but it is necessary for success. Farm conservation work has increased 2 to 3 times over past years since our watershed program began."

Mud River watershed includes 240,000 acres owned by 1860 farmers in Logan, Todd, Butler and Muhlenberg counties. Its watershed plan calls for 25 floodwater dams, and 1 large 900 acre flood control and recreational lake. The project will cost five to six million dollars of which three million will be federal funds.

"During our recent heavy rains the Calloway portion of West Fork watershed surely could have benefited by the type of watershed protection and flood control measures the people in Mud River have taken advantage of through Public Law 566," observed Sherwood Potts, a Calloway County Watershed Director.

West Fork Clark's River watershed is a 150,000 acre area involving 1936 farmers in counties of Calloway, Graves, Marshall and McCracken. It is a 27 mile long pickle-shaped watershed. Its watershed plan calls for 17 floodwater dams ranging in size from 19 to 58 acres; 183 acres of gully stabilization; 50 miles of channel improvement plus various farm practices. Over $2,000,000 of federal is available to be spent. For every dollar invested in the watershed program a $1.30 in benefits is expected in return. For every $1.00 of local money invested in 1961 landowners in the watershed area may receive approximately $4.00 to $5.00 in return through local ACP cost-share programs.

People attending this tour were Leon Chambers, Sherwood Potts, William Bazzel, Leslie Douglas, Herman Darnell, Bob Brown, Harvey Lewis, W. H. Brooks, and Wayne Williams of Calloway County; L. W. Murdoch, J. T. Watkins, Joe Ray, Curtis Woods, Howard Heath and Lee Grass of Graves County; Ray Rile, V. G. Smith, and Ernest Cox of Marshall County, and Gus Joiner and J. O. Burken of McCracken County.

WOODROW RICKMAN

Candidate For

Sheriff of Calloway County

It is a great pleasure for me to take this method of announcing my candidacy for Sheriff of Calloway County, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary of May 23, 1961. I can truthfully say that my race in the primary of 1957 was one of the highlights of my life. Four years ago, as most of you know, I ran a very close second and your vote of encouragement was sincerely appreciated by me and my family. Because of this encouragement, it is much easier for me once again to ask your help to attain one of my lifelong ambitions — to serve the people as Sheriff of Calloway County.

A knowledge of my family background is necessary information to help you render your decision as to who will make the best sheriff and who will render the best service in these difficult times. I was born 47 years ago on a farm near South Pleasant Grove, the son of Edd and Lucy Rickman. After serving with the TVA, both as a laborer and a foreman, I entered business as a brick and concrete block mason, and have been employed in that capacity since. One of my greatest pleasures is the fact that I have helped in the construction of 27 churches in this county.

I am married to the former Katherine Dunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hub Dunn of Hazel. We have two children and I can assure every parent that I have a deep and abiding interest in the safety and welfare of your children and young people.

I have had 24 years of experience on administrative boards and am Sunday School Superintendent of my own church. Thus my interest in spiritual guidance is evident. One of my greatest civic pleasures is being one of the organizers of the Murray Civitan Club. This organization has given me and many of my friends the opportunity to aid many unfortunate children. I sincerely hope that this club with its specific aims will accomplish the purpose for which it was founded. I certainly intend to continue my efforts in that direction.

I have always been a faithful Democrat and have worked hard to support my party at all times. I have never held an elective or appointive office; I have no obligation to any faction or group — and I will serve each person without favoritism or fear of reprisal. I have only one aim and that is to serve as capably as my physical and mental capacity will allow me. This is a good county and deserves the utmost support of every person, including elected officials.

It is my sincere desire to see and talk with each of you personally and to give you the opportunity to question me concerning my program; however, I know that this will be impossible. Therefore, if I should miss seeing you, it is my earnest desire that you take this announcement as my personal appeal to each of you. I am not a politician, so I humbly seek the advice and counsel of each of you as I start this campaign. Your suggestions will be warmly welcomed by me and my family. Please feel free to call me to offer any counsel or to ask any question you desire. My phone number is PLaza 3-5059.

I intend to conduct my campaign on the highest level, with due regard and respect to all those who also seek this office. My personal life is an open book with nothing held back. I know that I have made mistakes, but with the spiritual guidance that I seek, with honest effort on my part, and with your help — I can be the next Sheriff of Calloway County.

I urgently seek your support and confidence. In return for your trust, I promise each of you that I will make an honest, just, impartial, and fearless Sheriff.

Mrs. Edwin Larson, program chairman, introduced those on the program. Miss Cattie Beale, president, welcomed the large number of members and guests present. The tables were beautifully decorated in the club colors of lavender and gold. Arrangements of spring flowers were used on the speaker's table.
